

Ancient monument

monument

Preservation of Historical Sites

Up to 2002 historical sites at Daoye, Wujianchu, Nanguanli, Beisanshe, Sanbaojhu, Wujianchubei, Yousianfang, Nanguanlidong and Shihtoupu were unearthed. Cultural remains range from five thousand years ago until the Han people's migration to Taiwan in modern times. Spanning an almost continuous period of over four thousand years, this area contains the most complete archeological records of Taiwan.

The process of preserving historical sites offers academic institutions an opportunity to undertake field work. In September 2002 the results of their work were placed in the Gallery of Archeology for permanent exhibition.

Figure 2-11 Preservation of Historical Relics

Figure 2-12 Historical Relics on Display

Historical sites unearthed up to the end of 2002

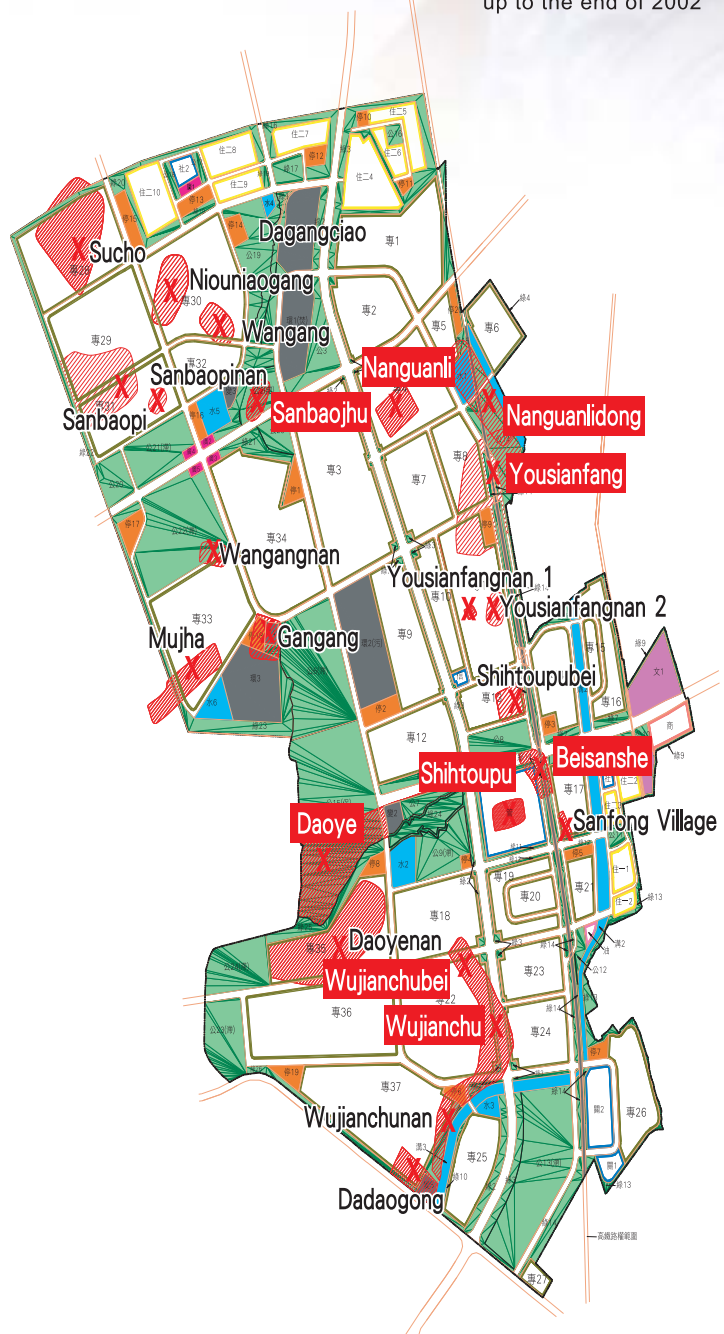

Figure 2-13 Historical Sites